

King of Cats

This is a Chinese/Taiwanese expression ‘honoring’ the “sexist/showiest male”. However, this title was given to an American in 1950’s and 60’s. That guy was Mr. Elvis Presley.

Also, I want to remind you that his songs had nothing to do with the movie “Cats”. [By the way, the movie features a very beautiful song titled “Memory”. You might want to check it out.] [Mr. Ting whistles that song all the time.]

Mr. Presley in his lifetime performed many commercially successful songs. At least two of them have Spanish/Latin origins; they are: “No More” and “It’s Now or Never”.

But the most beautiful song that he ever performed is “Can’t Help Falling in Love with You.” Watch the video [https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=YuH_90giGTQ]. Whenever I see the male dancer wheel his dancing partner into the air together with her wheelchair, I almost have tears in my eyes. It is just so beautiful!

Question: What are the titles of the original two Spanish songs mentioned above? If you like, you can expand your ideas. To be honest with you, one of the songs even has something to do with CFP plant.
